Jazz Duo Swingtime Sunday, December 4, 2005

The Bloomfield Public Library was pleased to present the Jazz Duo Swingtime in a free concert on Sunday, December 4, 2005 at 2:00 PM in the Library Theatre. Despite the weather, many brave souls ventured out to hear this talented jazz duo.

Swingtime, the music of Joe Licari and Larry Weiss, featured many Swing era classics from the works of George Gershwin, Cole Porter, Rodgers & Hart, and others of that Golden Age of American Songwriting.

Larry, a jazz trumpeter and pianist, has been on the musical scene for many years. His credits include performances at many jazz venues including Eddie Condon's, Jimmy Ryan's, the Red Blazer, and Jazz Festivals in Manassas, VA, Sacramento, CA, and Birmingham, England. He has played with many jazz greats including Bud Freeman, Teddy Wilson, Bobby Hackett and Vic Dickenson.

Joe's clarinet has sparked many a jazz session. He has worked with such Jazz notables as Wild Bill Davidson, Doc Cheatham, and Cliff Leeman. He often filled in for Woody Allen at Michael's Pub in NYC, and plays with the Grove Street Stompers in NYC. At one time he was a regular on the syndicated Jim Lowe and Company Radio Show heard coast to coast.
